REQUIRED

SNAPSHOT OF ADVENTURE

A bear is at home in the outdoors, and so is a Bear Cub Scout. In this Adventure, you'll learn how to plan a one-mile walk with your den. Your walk may be around where you live, it may be on a historical trail that has been in use for hundreds of years, or it may be on a nature trail. When we are outside, we also have responsibilities to make sure that others can enjoy the outdoors too. Knowing and following the Leave No Trace Principles for Kids helps us do just that.

SNAPSHOT OF ADVENTURE

There are many ways to make things go — electricity, fuel, and batteries, to name a few. Did you know that you have the power to make a boat sail in the water or that a car can move using the force of gravity? Propulsion is what gives an object (such as a plane, car, or boat) the power to move. You will learn different ways to make and propel vehicles. Think about how the shapes of cars, boats, and planes affect the distance they can go. In this Adventure, you'll explore how you can use the air in your lungs, the force of gravity, and the power of your imagination to make things go.
